The day had been devoted to a business session of the grand lodge and a big street parade late in the afternoon. The night was set aside for one of those gatherings known as a "social session," for which the Elks are famous. The place selected was the Casino building up at the inlet. By 9 o'clock more than 1,200 people had gathered on the second floor of the pavilion of the Casino, anticipating a pleasant evening's enjoyment. But there were several hundred people who had noticed the vibration of the floor and left the pavilion, fearing the great weight would lead to its destruction and consequent injury of the merry-makers. Fearing to create a panic these quietly approached some members of the visiting lodges and discussed with them the advisability of bringing the affair to a close so as to relieve the floor of a portion of the weight. Just as they were talking the crash came. A portion of the floor, some thirty feet square, located about the middle of the pavilion and near the railing on the board walk side, came tumbling down, bringing along probably 100 people. In a second the electric lights on the second floor were extinguished, but luckily those on the lower floor kept burning long enough to permit some of the panic-stricken people to get to the stairway, which remained intact, and reach the board walk. Men, women and children were jammed together trying to escape by the stairway, while the victims of the crash were screaming for aid to extricate them from falling beams and timbers. While the work of rescue was going on the lights on the same floor became extinguished and plunged the place in total darkness. Men ran to the car barn of the trolley road near by and obtained a number of headlights from the cars. These were most useful in assisting the work of the gallant rescuers. Before the arrival of the ambulance a number of omnibuses congregated about the inlets and were pressed into service to carry away the wounded to their hotels or to the city hospital. The utmost excitement prevailed everywhere on the streets and in the hotels, as it was not known just who were injured, and the most extravagant stories prevailed of the extent of the accident. These stories arose from the fact that many women fainted and had to be carried out of the Casino and conveyed to their homes in carriages and omnibuses.

That the list of killed and injured is not much larger seems a miracle when the character of the building is considered. Why such a place was selected for such an entertainment is being discussed among the visiting Elks. The affair will spoil the pleasure of every one in attendance at the grand lodge.

TO PLAN A SILVER CAMPAIGN.

Committee of Indiana Democratic Editors Meet in Indianapolis.

Indianapolis, Ind., July 11.—The committee that was appointed by the democrats at the Maxinkuckee free-silver conference met here yesterday to plan a campaign for independent coinage.

Senator Turpie has agreed to meet with the committee, and the members will be guided largely by his advice. The senator will recommend that a state meeting for the organization of a democratic independent-coinage league be called.

Members of the committee say that if a state league is formed an effort will be made to extend the organization into every county in the state. It is believed that by following this plan the free-coinage wing of the party will be able to control the district conventions which will meet next spring to select delegates to the national nominating convention.

MORE BOGUS BONDS FOUND.

Frauds of Z. T. Lewis Amount to More Than $100,000.

Urbana, O., July 11.—More speculations of Z. T. Lewis, the bond broker, continue to come to light hourly. E. B. Hutchison of Indianapolis has turned up $11,000 more of forged bonds. They are Tippecanoe city school bonds. The $20,000 of these bonds held by the German National bank of Cincinnati are declared to be bogus. A Springfield bank has $12,000 more. The total amount of fraudulent bonds so far known to have been hypothesized by Lewis aggregates over $100,000 and may reach double that amount. The fugitive broker left here Monday and it is an established fact that he first went to Michigan, where his family is spending the summer. From there he went to South America to get beyond reach of the law, but there is no clew to his route.

Work of the German Epworth League.

Chicago, July 11.—The forenoon meeting of yesterday's session of the German Epworth league was devoted to discussing the advisability of introducing the course of study used in the Epworth leagues of the Methodist Episcopal church into the German leagues.

F. L. Nagler, Cincinnati, was elected president. This afternoon the time and place of the next convention will be fixed. Farewell service will be held this evening.

Bankers of New York State.

Saratoga, N. Y., July 11.—President Cromwell called the second annual convention of the State Bankers' association to order yesterday. There was a large attendance. Treasury Cannon of New York city and Secretary Adair of Hornersville made their reports, after which the convention listened to addresses by B. E. Walker and Brayton Ives.

JUDGE WEBB NAMED
BY THE GOVERNORTHE SUPREME COURT VACANCY IS FILLED.

Choice Is Said To Have Been Influenced By Senator Sawyer and the Older Party Men—Big Fire at Neenah—Appleton Men in Prison—Other State Specials.

Madison, July 11.—[Special] Governor Upham this morning named Judge Charles Webb of the Eighth judicial circuit to fill the vacancy in the supreme court, caused by Chief Justice Orton's death. The appointment caused much surprise despite the fact that it was rumored here yesterday. It is said that the change of the governor's mind from Marshall to Webb was caused by the influence of Senator Sawyer and the older members of the party. Justice Webb was born in Pennsylvania in 1833; was admitted to the bar in 1857; came to Wisconsin in 1856 and began to study law. He served in the army; was a state senator and was elected judge in 1884. He was an able judge and few of his decisions have been reversed in the supreme court. He is less of a corporation man than Marshall, it is said.

ROBERT J. PACES IN 2:04 AGAIN

Geers Says the "Pony Built Horse" Can Go In Two Minutes.

LaCrosse, Wis., July 11.—Yesterday was a gala day at LaCrosse Driving park, and fully 6,000 people were in attendance. At 4:45 o'clock Geers brought out Robert J., and the crowd cheered him as he passed the start. The pacing was going better and looking better than he ever did in his life. The first quarter was paced in :32 and the half in 1:33. Geers then commenced to send him along, making the three-quarters in 1:34 and the mile in 2:04. The last quarter was paced at a 2:00 gait. Robert J. is undoubtedly the fastest harness animal alive, and Geers has said that he will drive him in 2:00 or better before the season is over.

W. G. COCHRAN IS SPEAKER.

Illinois House of Representatives Elects Him to Succeed Meyer.

Springfield, Ill., July 11.—Acting Speaker Needles called the house to order yesterday, and after the usual formalities, announced that the house would proceed to the election of a speaker to fill the vacancy caused by the death of John Meyer. White of Whiteside placed in nomination W. G. Cochran, the choice of the republican caucus. Jones of Green then took the floor and nominated Clayton E. Crafts. After the nominations had been seconded the roll was taken and it resulted in the election of W. G. Cochran over Crafts by a vote of 87 to 35. As he took up the gavel Cochran referred feelingly to the death of the late John Meyer and continued by thanking the members for the honors conferred upon him. A few resolutions regarding the appointment of janitors, policemen, and the like were introduced, after which the house adjourned.

The senate held another short session. Seven bills were introduced. Coon's resolution appointing Dunlap, Hunter, Harding, Herb, Aspinwall, Munroe, Berry, and Fitzpatrick a committee to investigate whether tax levy was adequate. Introduced before recess, was adopted with an amendment offered by Craig, adding to the committee the following democratic members—Wells, Mahoney, and McKinlay.

TRINITY CAPTURES
THE HENLEY CUPCORNELL SENDS TWO CREWS
NEXT YEAR.

Finals Rowed Today and the Crew That Beat the New Yorkers Proves Much the Strongest of the British How Yesterday's Fluke Occurred.

Henley, July 11.—Trinity Hall crew, the men that beat Cornell yesterday, win the challenge cup. The finals were rowed today, and it was seen that Trinity was by far the strongest of the English crews. Cornell men met today and decided to send two teams here next year to compete. Yesterday when Umpire Willan gave the word, Cornell started at a stroke of 16 to the minute and Trinity at a stroke of 42. The boats were nearly level at the top of the island and Cornell was leading by a few feet at the quarter mile, and gained from this point to the half mile. At Fawley court they were three-quarters of a length in advance. Trinity now began to gain, and at the Bushey Gate only half a length behind. At the mile they had closed up the difference to a quarter of a length, and at the Isthmian boathouse they were a few feet in the lead and still gaining. Just here there appeared to be some confusion in the Cornell boat. The oars flopped woefully out of time, and a moment later the men had stopped rowing. The Trinity men kept on at a pace that had enabled them to overhaul and pass the Cornell boat and crossed the finish line winners in 7 minutes and 15 seconds.

The fact seems to be that the Trinity crew ran away from Cornell, and the latter gave up the race. Cornell's time to the Fawley Court boathouse was 3 minutes and 23 seconds.

As the Cornell boat crossed the finish line Fennell tumbled from his seat in a dead faint. Two other members of the crew were badly played out, and the chances of the Cornell colors showing in front again in any of the heats are very slim.

ENDEAVORITES ARE IN SESSION

Vast Throng of Young People Gathered in Boston—Weather Is Perfect.

Boston, Mass., July 11.—The fourteenth annual convention of the Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor was formally opened yesterday. A more perfect day for the opening day could not have been wished. The schedule of the work called for no meetings until the evening, and the delegates who had arrived spent the time in sight-seeing.

The first business of the convention came at noon, when there was a meeting of the board of trustees of the united societies. This meeting was a long drawn out affair, the principal subject under consideration being the question of removing the headquarters of the society from Boston to Chicago. The headquarters will remain in Boston.

The only other matter of general interest was the presentation of the claims of Los Angeles, Cal., for the convention of 1897. Today the claims of Portland, Ore., San Francisco, and Seattle will be presented, and the matter taken under advisement. The trustees then accepted an invitation from Mayor Curtis of Boston to go with other guests on a trip down the harbor on the city's boat, and to visit the public institutions of Boston.

The trustees will decide today the matter of the 1897 convention, and also to take action looking toward the expansion of the society into a world's organization.

In the evening twenty simultaneous meetings were held in different churches in the city. Among the speakers were Rev. Pleasant Hunter, D. D., Minneapolis; Rev. John Henry Barrows, D. D., Chicago; Bishop Samuel Fallows, D. D., Chicago; Rev. H. B. Grose, Chicago, and Rev. Wayland Hoyt, Minneapolis.

The greatest number of delegates arrived yesterday, and with but one or two exceptions all the delegates are here, and all are housed. The reception, accommodation, and information committees of the local Christian Endeavor society are able to view the results of the last twenty-four hours' labor with satisfaction, since during the interim between midnight Tuesday night and at a late hour last night about 40,000 delegates have arrived from all sections of the country. Many trains are delayed, but it is expected that by the time the convention opens today nearly all the delegates will have arrived.

CONFESS TO MURDER.

Michigan Boy and Girl Admit Killing an Aged Woman.

Grand Haven, Mich., July 11.—George Cheesebro has confessed that he was the murderer of his grandmother, Mrs. Levi Pierce. Mary Pierce, the 13-year-old daughter, broke down and confessed that she and her mother were having a quarrel and George interfered and struck Mrs. Pierce several blows with a stove poker. Not satisfied with this he sprang at the old lady, caught her by the throat and throttled her to death. Mary did not interfere. Instead, she assisted Cheesebro in his attempt to clear up evidences of the struggle. Mrs. Pierce was a woman of violent temper and has been known to punish her children, and even her husband, unmercifully. Mr. Pierce appears to mourn but little, and it is the impression that he is glad his wife is dead. The young murderers have been bound over to the circuit court for trial.

DRAKE TO BE IOWA'S GOVERNOR

Enthusiastic Reception for Allison—Des Moines Convention a Short One.

Des Moines, Ia., July 11.—Contrary to expectations, the Republican State convention rushed through its work yesterday and adjourned sine die about 6 o'clock. Gen. F. M. Drake, of Centerville, was nominated for Governor on the sixth ballot, the Hon. Matt Parrott, of Waterloo, for Lieutenant-Governor on the second ballot, and Judge Given for the Supreme Court, State Superintendent Henry Sabin and Railway Commissioner George W. Perkins renominated for their respective positions by acclamation.

The convention was called to order at 10 o'clock by Chairman Blythe of the state central committee, and Temporary Chairman J. R. Lane of Davenport took the chair.

The attendance at the afternoon session was overwhelming. Hon. Lafe Young was made permanent chairman.

SENATOR ALLISON.

and made an exceedingly brief but epigrammatic address.

The committee on resolutions not being ready to report the chair announced that balloting for Governor was in order. There were no nominating speeches nor presentation of candidates, and no changing of votes while a ballot was in progress. The six ballots required to decide the nominee for Governor were taken in about two hours. The sixth ballot resulted: Drake, 864; Parrott, 231; Harlan, 139; Harsh, 7; Ormsby, 2; Kamrar, 2.

Gen. Drake made a ten-minute speech accepting the nomination. The convention then proceeded to the nomination of Lieutenant-Governor. The first ballot: Dungan, 346; Parrott, 606; Ormsby, 211; Kamrar, 80. During the second ballot Dungan's name was withdrawn and the nomination went to Parrott.

State Superintendent Sabin, Supreme Judge Given and Railway Commissioner Perkins were quickly renominated by acclamation. Most of the delegates left the city last night for their homes.

An interesting incident of the convention was the reception of Senator Allison at the morning session. At the conclusion of the prayer Senator Allison was observed to ascend the stage and move slowly toward a seat on the platform. The distinguished statesman and presidential candidate was at once recognized, and, arising to their feet, the delegates on the floor and the thousands of men and women of the audience sent up a mighty shout. Men stood up on chairs and wildly waved their hats and cheered with almost ferocious ardor.

In the midst of the scene Senator Allison, smiling and deeply touched at the reception given him by the Republicans of Iowa, was escorted to the front of the stage and presented to the audience. Again the vast concourse that filled the hall went wild with enthusiasm, which broke out again when Temporary Chairman Lane a few minutes later mentioned the name of Senator Allison in connection with the presidential office.

The platform in brief reaffirms the fealty of the party in Iowa to the national party, congratulating the people upon the evidence of returning prosperity, labor re-employed, wages restored and industry re-established on a prosperous basis, all of which is attributed to the prospective return of the Republican party to power. It deplores the destruction of the reciprocity agreements by the Democratic party, affirms the declaration of the Minneapolis National convention on the currency question, quoting that plank entire, and urging an international agreement on the silver problem. welcomes the honest and industrious immigrant and declares no other should be permitted to come; favors liberality to the nation's defenders in the way of pensions; congratulates the people that the State will be represented in the next Congress by two Republican Senators and eleven Republican congressmen, and "with especial pride remembers the services of our senior Senator, whose long and honorable record entitled him to full confidence and enduring affection, and hails with satisfaction the universal desire of the Republicans of the State to continue him in his present field of usefulness until called to the larger services of the nation."

Gen. Alger Not a Candidate.

New York, July 11.—Gen. R. A. Alger of Michigan and ex-Senator T. C. Platt had a long conference yesterday at the office of Mr. Platt. Gen. Alger told a friend that he was not a candidate for the presidential nomination and did not expect to enter the race this year.

GAY TIMES AT DENVER.

Teachers Enjoy Themselves—Some Business Postponed Till Next Year.

Denver, Colo., July 11.—The general session of the National Association of Teachers yesterday was opened by several musical numbers given by the Chicago principals' male quartet. The department sessions opened in the afternoon to crowded houses. There were seven of them, each with an interesting program, interspersed by musical numbers given by local talent. The business of the association was shortened by postponing until next year the matter of representation and voting, but the new plan of membership was adopted. By this plan there will be active, associate and corresponding members. Hereafter there will be no life members of the board of directors, but those now holding that position will maintain it until death. The new department of physical education, established at this session, organized and elected Miss R. Anna Mirris of Cleveland, Ohio, president, and Miss Nettie B. Kimberly of Detroit, secretary. The nominating committee of the general association selected as candidates for the ensuing year Mr. N. C. Dougherty of Peoria, Ill., and renominated the secretary and treasurer.

PLANS OF THE SANTA FE.

Road Likely to Be Extended to San Francisco Very Shortly.

FORTUNES ON FEET TO COME NEXT WEEK

HORSES THAT ARE WORTH BIG SUMS OF MONEY.

Two Hundred and Fifty of Them Have Records Under 2:30 and Half of the Number Can Go In Less Than 2:20—The Week's Program—Track Talk.

A good many hundred thousand dollars worth of horse flesh will be quartered at the Janesville track next week for of the four hundred horses entered, two hundred and fifty have records under 2:30 and are therefore "worth some money." There are fifteen pacers with records of 2:11 or under, nineteen pacers with records of 2:15 or under, fourteen trotters with records of 2:13 or under and fourteen more trotters with records of 2:15 or under. The largest entry is in the 2:40 trotting class where thirty two animals are named while the smallest entry is in the 2:32 pacing class with eleven entries. The meeting was first advertised to begin on July 16 and run five days, but the entry was so large that they decided to make it a full week, beginning on Monday with the match race between Joe Patchen, (2:04) and Strathberry (2:06) the two year old trotting class; the 2:22 class for pacers, and the 2:40 trotting class. The program for the balance of the week is as follows:

Tuesday—2:28 class trotting; 2:19 class trotting; 2:45 class pacing; and the three year old (2:35 class) pacers.

Big Pacing Race Wednesday.

Wednesday—2:20 class pacing; 2:10 class pacing; 2:35 class trotting; and 2 year old pacing class.

Thursday—3 year old (2:40 class) trotting; 2:15 class trotting; 2:33 class trotting; and 2:29 class pacing.

Friday—2:18 class trotting; 2:15 class pacing; and 2:26 class trotting.

Saturday—2:12 class trotting; 2:22 class trotting; and 2:33 class pacing.

Thus it will be seen that there is a sensational event set for each day, and between them there can be but little choice. The $1,000 and $600 purses have drawn the cream of the racers to the Bower city.

The horses that will meet on the Janesville track next week are now competing at LaCrosse, Burlington, Iowa and Mendota Ill. The greater portion of them, however, are at the LaCrosse track. The first race yesterday at that city, the 2:16 trotting class, was won by Maggie Sherman, one of "Red" Gerrity's stable, the best time being 2:10. Impetuous, the sensational two year old of last season, won the first two heats, but Maggie had more staying power and the two last ones will fight their next battle in Janesville. Kate Phallmont got fifth place in the race, the others being Margrave, Maud Wright, Kolena, Lady Hare, Alta and two or three more, all of whom are entered here.

Hot Contest For Trotters.

In the 2:10 trotting class at LaCrosse, Klamath, the California gelding was the winner, defeating Kentucky Union, David B. and several others, the best time being 2:10. Klamath will be in different company here, and will meet B. B. P. and other sensational performers.

Jersey Belle, the mare that won the 2:30 class purse here at year in 2:21, is now entered in the 2:18 class. At Davenport she trotted in that class yesterday, but as they went in 2:14 she did not get a place. Domineer, another horse that will be in the same class here, was one notch ahead of Jersey Belle.

The 2:14 pacing class at Davenport was a hot race and was won by Afrite, a horse entered in the 2:30 class here. In 2:11, Sir Edwin Arnold won the third heat and second money in 1:45, while third money fell to Giles Noyes and fourth to Dempsey. These horses, with several others, will come together again here, when more 2:11 miles will probably be seen.

At Mendota, Grace Darling, a mare entered in the 2:25 class here won second money in the 2:19 class by trotting the first heat in 2:18, after which Delmont won the race in slower time.

Kissell's Dallas, a horse well known here, died at Indianapolis the other day. The mare had a record of 2:10 and had often paced here. Kissell paid $400 for her and won $20,000.

CIGARETTES ARE IN DEMAND.

Local Dealers Now Order Them By The Thousands.

If you think for a moment that the cigarette is seeing its last days you should post yourself at any well known tobacco stand and see the number of smokers who call for the paper cigars.

"It is simply surprising," said a west side dealer the number of boxes that I sell in a day, and not all to boys either. I formerly ordered them a box at a time which contain fifty packages and I now think nothing of ordering at least twenty boxes or one thousand and packages at a time and they soon go."

A well dressed stranger who plainly showed by his pinched face that he was a firm believer in the death-peg, made his way from the railroad yards down Milwaukee street. As he passed the West Milwaukee street restaurant of E. J. Schmidley he stopped a moment and then went in. He told the proprietor that he was a stranger in the city and it was simply a case of beg with him. He had no money, and wanted no food, but said he would like two cigarettes until he would make enough money to buy a box, and then return and take the remaining eight. The cigarettes were given him and he walked out with a smile, but has not as yet returned to buy the eight remaining "cigar naps."

DRILL NIGHT AND DAY AT A WELL

They Are Now Down to the Depth of 600 Feet.

Work at the new drive well on South Jackson street is getting along as fast as can be expected and the huge pounding machine, is kept working most of the time, both day and night. W. G. Maxey of the Water works company was in the city yesterday, and expressed himself as being well pleased with the prospects of the new well, and further remarked that there is no reason why a flow of water will not soon be struck, that in clearness and strength will be second to none in the state. At present a good sized stream of clear water is flowing, and the drill which is now at a depth of six hundred feet, is striking the same grade of sand and rock, as it did when first started. A great many people think that the two wells being so close together, would have some effect on the strength of each other, but this, Mr. Maxey says, would have but little effect for the two wells are a considerable distance apart.

IT CAN'T BE JANESVILLE WATER.

Milwaukee Is Worried About Its Supply of Thirst-Quenching.

The Milwaukee health department wants to impose certain regulations upon those who sell spring waters about the city. While most of their water comes from Waukesha large shipments are made from this city, water coming from Barr Springs. The water is bottled here at the springs and great care is used to insure cleanliness. Once in a while, however, carelessness is shown in the bottling of all spring waters, the Milwaukee health department says, and by the admission of air to the bottle the water is made stale and unhealthful after standing any length of time.

MACADAM STREET IS THE BEST IN TOWN

JOHN WATSON TALKS OF ROAD BUILDING.

Says That the Little Stretch That the Street Commissioner Laid Out North Main Street As An Experiment Is Better and Cheaper Than Block Pavement.

"That is the best piece of road in the city," said John Watson today, pointing to the macadam roadway recently constructed on North Main street between Milwaukee and First streets. As everybody in Janesville entertains the highest respect for Mr. Watson's opinion he was questioned. "That is a first-class road, and it is very cheap compared with paving blocks," he said. "While that little piece was built more as an experiment than anything else, I think the trial will result in much good to the city, and that much more of it will be put down. We have the very best material here for road building, and it is cheap and easy to obtain. The road is durable, too. Of course it requires watching and frequent repairs are necessary. In England, after a road is built something like that, some old man is employed at a shilling a day, a sum equal to a quarter of a dollar here. This man is given a stretch of about a mile to keep in order. When a little hole or rut appears, he takes a pick and turns up the loose gravel and stone, and then puts in new material, tamping well, and in this way the road is kept in order. These roads in England are generally toll roads leading from one city to another, but wagons with wide tires are allowed to pass over them free, as the wide tires act as a roller in keeping the road smooth. If the road gets out of order the old man is discharged and a new man takes his place.

Cheaper Than Blocks.

"This is a much cheaper as well as better road than paving blocks. The quarry stone we have is just the thing for the foundation. This should be broken, either with a crusher or with stone hammers, and should be spread over the road bed eight or ten inches. Then put on our screened gravel, but no sand. Then roll it down. Perhaps a little clay dressing on top would be a good thing here to pack the gravel, but it will all come down to as smooth a surface according to the skill in spreading. A heavy roller, would be just the thing to crowd it down, in which case I think no clay would be required. We have plenty of gravel close by, and I believe it would be the right thing for the city to purchase several of these gravel beds in order that gravel could be obtained at a nominal price.

"It is my opinion that this kind of road can be built for at least one half the cost of paving. The work on North Main street did not cost over one-seventh the expense of paving, and yet that portion is as smooth and good as the best pavement in the city. But, if this kind of road is to be built it must be built right. You see those little pebble stones are as hard as flint, and will never wear out."

Would Lay More Of It.

"If I was acting for the city, I would buy some good gravel lots and put down quite a stretch of this kind of road. When the people become accustomed to it, and see how cheap it can be built all will favor it. Of course, it will cost more than the Main street section to build new roads, because you will have to cart away considerable earth to make way for your foundation, and then will have to procure entirely new material. Over there they used the old material which was dug up and turned over, it only required a little extra quarry stone and the screened gravel."

Mr. Watson then went on to explain in regard to road building in England.

"I gave 'Had' a stone hammer the other day that I brought over from England many years ago. This hammer was used in breaking stone for road building. It is a light hammer, with a long spring handle. You cannot break stone to advantage with a stiff handle to the hammer. The hammer will do better execution if allowed to spring back by the action of the handle, and the man using it can work to better advantage."

The question of locating a school house at Spring Brook addition is receiving a great deal of encouragement in that vicinity. A. E. Shumway offers to donate a site. A number of locations have been discussed. Lots number 126 127 and 128 facing the James P. Ace are the ones that are preferred, they being the right distance from the river and the railroad tracks.

BREEZY ITEMS FROM MONTEREY.

OLD settlers at Monterey say that the river has reached low water mark. Below the dam and for miles down the river, small islands are forming and the weeds and grass are beginning to poke up their heads. Since the flow has decreased to such an extent, the Doty Light and Power Company have been compelled to use steam to run the dynamos as there is not water enough to turn the wheels. Another result of the low stage of the river is the excellent fishing opportunity afforded the small boy. In many places fish have been found in pools where the water was too shallow to allow them to escape, and makes their capture easy.

SINCE the introduction of the electric lights, the residents of Monterey have been much interested in the location of the poles as they think they can use considerable illumination to advantage.

THE ruins of the old stone houses that were erected years ago, below the arches, are being slowly cleared away, much to the delight of the people residing in that district.

A MODEL slaughterhouse has recently been built south of the School for the Blind, by W. C. Kammerer, and all up-to-date appliances are in use.

CHANCES are that Monterey will not have a saloon, a thought it was said the building soon to be vacated by W. C. Kammerer would be so occupied.

A NEW set of wagon scales will soon be put in on Center avenue by W. C. Kammerer, for the accommodation of farmers about that district.

L. Briggs & Bro, expect to brick up their building at the corner of Western avenue and Linn street, this fall.

THE closing of the Jackson street bridge has resulted in a rush of travel over the Monterey structure.

THE weed commissioner has his eye on the streets of Monterey, and the residents have been warned.

CEDAR PUMP LOGS WERE THE MAINS

CAPTAIN IRA MILTIMORE AND YOUNG CHICAGO.

First Water Works System Was Superintended By the Janesville Man, a Twenty-Five Horse Power Engine Being Sufficient—Capacity of Twenty-five Barrels An Hour.

Captain Ira Miltimore of this city, gave Chicago its first supply of water. Some well-preserved cedar logs with holes bored through them lengthwise were uncovered by workmen in Chicago the other day, and were identified as sections of the old mains. The Chicago Journal says: "They were bored out of cedar, from logs about ten feet in length, a foot in diameter, and with a bore of three inches. Think of Chicago getting all its water through a three-inch pipe!"

"Yet it was a day of great rejoicing, thirty-five years ago, when Captain Ira Miltimore's twenty-five-horse-power pump at Michigan avenue and Lake street first began sending water through these pipes. The people did not complain when, of a winter's day, the city engineer had to hunt up a leak in the cedar main and solder it shut by throwing on water to freeze over the cracks. Nor was there any alarm over the location of the 14-inch wooden intake that extended far out into the lake—as far as 320 feet—and sucked in twenty-five barrels of water a minute, on days when the reservoir at Lake and Michigan avenue was low and the engine was entirely free from gout and rheumatism. Chicago was prouder of those primitive waterworks than it is of its present vast system.

"And it had reason to be proud. Before the laying of these cedar pipes the thirsty or cleanly Chicagoan was accustomed to pay from five to ten cents a barrel for the fluid that was secured by backing water carts into the lake at the foot of Randolph street."

Janesville people, with a water works system able to supply 8,000,000 gallons of water a day, smile at the idea of Chicago ever being satisfied with 18,600 gallons.

TWO LAWN SOCIALS LAST NIGHT

Jolly Companies At the Home of George Crane and A. W. Hall.

A very pretty scene was presented at the suburban home of Mr. and Mrs. George Crane, south of the school for the blind last evening. The occasion was an ice cream social given by the Thoughtful Circle of Kings Daughters of the Congregational church. Numerous booths and tents dotted the law and serving of the refreshments was in the hands of Misses Alice Farnsworth, Edna Spoon, Nettie Kent, Winifred Jerome, Jessie Echlin, Harriet Otis, Etta Zache, Maude Nowlan, Grace Spoon, Grace Ward and Maud Ward. Carryalls made frequent trips from the city and the affair was a success both socially and financially. The Zither and Guitar club furnished excellent music and the affair was much enjoyed by all present.

Another very pretty lawn social was given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Hall, corner of Cherry and Center streets last evening. The lawn was tastefully decorated with lanterns and the Y. M. C. A. band rendered a pleasing program. Ice cream was served by a number of young ladies, and the affair was a very pleasant one.

The Girl's Mother Nipped Their Plans.

The plan to elope had already been laid and everything was ready but the crossing to Jefferson and having the ceremony performed, says a Louisville special. The young couple who had planned the elopement was destined to meet with an insurmountable obstacle on the day that the wedding was to take place. The young man in the case is only 18 years of age, while the girl is only 16. Miss Mamie Wagner, a pretty little girl from Harrodsburg, has for some time been visiting the family of Mr. James Van Arsdale, 320 Twenty-ninth street, and a short while ago she became acquainted with August Hermes, a young man living in this city. They formed a great attachment for one another. After a short courtship the young man proposed to the girl, and, although her mother was in Harrodsburg and knew nothing of the affair, she accepted the proposal and Sunday was set for the wedding day. Hermes' family and several friends were making the necessary preparations and everything was smooth sailing for a time. Mr. Van Arsdale, however, began thinking over the matter and decided that it would not be right for him to allow the girl to marry while in his keeping, so he telegraphed to her mother. Mrs. Wagner arrived and in a few words she expressed her views on the question. They were not altogether favorable to the plans of the young couple. The mother thought that the matter was settled, but she was badly mistaken. While the family were at the breakfast table the girl thought she would make one more attempt to marry Hermes, and, slipping out of the house, she proceeded to the home of the young man. In a short time the mother noticed that her daughter was missing. She started toward the Hermes residence and on the way met Patrolman Tuley, to whom she told her story. The policeman accompanied the woman to the house of the Hermes. The girl still declared that she would marry the boy, and it was decided that the best thing that could be done was to take her to the police station. While there the policeman told her that if she would not go with her mother the law would have to take its course. Miss Wagner evidently did not like the looks of the station and she finally said she would go with her mother rather than be locked up.

Can you locate it? You ought to be able to because you live in it. This world is the biggest curiosity shop that we have ever known anything about up to date. Jupiter or Saturn may be able to discount it. Perhaps, and perhaps not. It is pretty full of people who are continually tuckering with themselves—patching themselves up so to speak, in a medicinal way. If they are constipated, bilious or dyspeptic they rush to the nearest druggist for a violent purgative. If they are malarious they fly for relief to that ancient but ineffectual remedy—the sulphate of quinine. This is what they shouldn't do. What they should do is to begin and pursue a course of Hostetter's Stomach Cures, the premier of all-ratives and anti-malarial specifics, particularly valuable also for rheumatism, neuralgia, nervousness and debility, and a promoter of sleep and appetite beneficial to all chronic invalids.

The Only Remedy in the World that Refunds Purchase Price if it Fails to Cure the Tobacco Habit in 4 to 10 Days is

Narcoti-Cure

It Cures while You Continue the Use of Tobacco.

The greatest discovery of the age!

A certain, pleasant, permanent cure.

A lifetime's suffering ended for $5.

Why smoke and spit your life away? Why suffer from dyspepsia, heartburn and drains on your vital forces?

Stop using tobacco, but stop the right way. Drive the nicotine from your system by use of this wonderful remedy.

Narcoti cure is warranted to remove all desire for tobacco in every form, including Cigar, Cigarette and Pipe smoking, Chewing and Snuff Taking.

Use all the tobacco you want while under treatment, and in from four to ten days your "hankering" and "craving" will disappear—the weed won't taste good.

Then throw away tobacco forever.

Narcoti-Cure is entirely vegetable and free from injurious ingredients. It never fails to give tone and new vigor to the weakest constitution.

Remember Narcoti-Cure doesn't deprive you of tobacco while effecting a cure; doesn't ask you to buy several bottles to be entitled to a guarantee; doesn't require a month's treatment; and finally, doesn't enable you to stop tobacco only to find yourself a slave to the habit of tablet chewing.

With Narcoti-Cure, when you are through with tobacco you are through with the remedy. One bottle cures.

Send for book of prominent testimonials like the following:

HUNTINGTON, Mass., Mar. 18, 1895.

The Narcoti Chemical Co., Springfield, Mass. Gentlemen:—I have used tobacco for over twenty-five years, chewing and smoking every day from 7 a. m. to 9 p. m. stopping only for meals.

On Monday, February 4, I called at your office in Springfield, and bought a bottle of the Cure which I used as directed and on the tenth day the desire for tobacco had left me and has not returned. I did not lose a meal while taking the cure. My appetite has improved and I consider Narcoti-Cure a grand thing.

Very respectfully,

CHAS. I. LINCOLN.

Mr. Frank H. Morton, of Chicopee Falls, Mass., late Inspector of Public Buildings for Massachusetts, says:

I used tobacco for twenty-five years, and was a confirmed smoker. In just eight days' treatment with Narcoti-Cure I was through with tobacco, in fact the desire vanished like a dream.

Very Respectfully,

FRANK H. MORTON.

THIS DAY IN HISTORY

1708 — Battle of Audenarde; Marlborough and Prince Eugene defeated the French.
1787 — John Quincy Adams, sixth president of the United States, born at Braintree, Mass.; died 1848.
1871 — Commodore John Rodgers, American naval hero, born in Philadelphia; died 1893. Commodore John Rodgers was the father of the famous Admiral John Rodgers of the Union navy. The commodore himself was the son of a Scotchman who fought in the Revolution. He went to sea at 13 and was captain of a merchantman at 18. In early manhood he entered the navy. The country was then engaged in hostilities with France. When the Constellation fought L'Insurgente, Rodgers was executive officer of the American ship. He served with gallantry in Tripoli and as captain of the President fired the first shot of the war of 1812.
1774 — Sir William Johnson, famous pioneer and Indian manager, died near Johnstown, N. Y.; born in Ireland 1715.
1864 — General J. B. Fry, U. S. A., retired, died at Newport, R. I.; born 1827.

FIGURES TELL A CHEERING TALE.

Along with rising wages come increased orders. Wool has been in stronger demand for a week than at any time since 1892. The market for cotton goods continues strong, and further advances in prices are reported, with comparatively few labor difficulties. In boots and shoes the midsummer closing will not be as general as usual, apparently, nor last so long, most manufacturers having already orders for six weeks to two months ahead. There is some improvement in the demand for the better grades, although the cheaper goods will constitute the bulk of trade.

The excitement and advance in iron and steel and their products do not abate, and with prices everywhere rising, there is such haste to place orders than in many departments the working force of the establishments now in operation is found inadequate. Manufacturers and merchants are working on the theory that no more tariff tinkering will be done, and they are right. A solid republican majority stands between them and any more free trade experiments such as destroyed business confidence in 1893.

WHERE MEN LIVE ON BEANS

The workman who thinks he would fare better under free silver should cast an eye toward Mexico. Down there a good hat costs $10; shoes, $18 to $20 per pair; linen cuffs, 60 cents a pair; trousers, $15. It costs 25 cents to get shaved and railroad fare is twice as high as in the United States. The poorer people go without things which are regarded in this country as necessities. But what is especially interesting to the American laboring man is that although prices are high, wages are inversely low. The Mexican laborer earns from 6¢ to 25 cents per day. He lives mostly on beans. His clothing consists of a cotton shirt, cotton trousers, leather sandals and straw hat. For his wages he has to work like a horse. These are the statements of a careful observer. They do not prove that the American workman would be reduced to such a level if free coinage prevailed. He would not be, for the excellent reason that he would not put up with it. But they do go to show that free silver does not make the workingman prosperous.

WORK FOR ALL.

No man need complain of lack of work. The harvest fields of the north-west offer employment for all the men that will go. Dispatches reiterate that several thousand men could find employment on the farms of Minnesota and the two Dakotas. Many men are needed in other employments, railroad and sawmill work, but the opportunities for farm labor are unlimited. Men are in large demand now for haying, and a constantly increasing number will be wanted after this week to take care of the wheat crop as the harvest advances from the southern belt of these states northward. The man who prefers to starve rather than to embrace the opportunities now offered, is more fit for starving than for any other occupation.

Milwaukee county thinks $130 a head too much to pay for pumpkins, drunk and disorderly prisoners full of bi-chloride. Inquiry would show a good many other counties that think bread and water quite costly enough for such cases. Until Keeley invents something that changes a man's inclination as well as spoiling his thirst his cure will never be effective on "chronic drunks" such as spend three months out of six in the Janesville jail.

General Allison was launched in the presidential race yesterday with the official sanction of an Iowa republican convention. At a matter of fact, however, General Allison has been running hard for the last sixteen years.

Carl Browne now claims to be the "mouthpiece" of a mysterious secret society called the "Peoples Practical Phalanx." He is nearer to being prince of practical phools.

Coal will not be as cheap again as it has been during the last month. He was a wise man who filled his bin for the winter while the barons were quarreling.

Failure on Chicago Board of Trade.

Chicago, June 11.—One failure has so far been recorded as a result of the late weakness in wheat. Yesterday C. Montague & Co. announced their inability to carry out their contracts. Mr. Montague is well known on the board of trade and in Chicago, where he has been engaged in the flour business for many years. He has been carrying long wheat down from a high figure and yesterday's 5-cent break was the straw that broke the camel's back. Assets and liabilities have not yet been estimated.

Party of Excursionists Drown.

Norfolk, Va., July 11.—Near Wauchapreague, Va., yesterday a sailboat with a party of thirteen excursionists on board capsized in midstream. Only four men were in the party and these rendered all possible aid to the struggling women, five of whom were drowned. One of the men was dragged under and drowned by the girl he was trying to save. The dead are as follows: Janie Scott, Helen Brockover, Lillian Gregory, Maggie Buskon, Juanita Burnett, John Tait. A schooner yacht, the Christine, picked up the survivors.

TICKLING TROUT.

The Little Beauties Are Often Caught by the Hand.

Shakespeare is far from being the only high authority who asserts the possibility of catching trout without the aid of any other angling implements than the fisherman's own hands. Robert Louis Stevenson knew all about this simple but effective method. There is a passage in "Kidnapped" that describes it minutely. While David Balfour and Alan Breck Stewart were hiding in the mountains, they supplemented their diet of porridge in just this way, and as David says, "grilled the little trout that we caught with our hands under the stones and overhanging banks of the burn. This," he adds, "was indeed our chief pleasure and business. We spent a great part of our days at the water-side, stripped to the waist, and groping about (or as they say) 'guddling' for these fish. The largest we got might have been three-quarters of a pound." So Captain Nettleton, about whose trout tickling exploits there was an editorial article in the Times on Sunday, is again vindicated. It will be seen that Stevenson uses the word "guddling." In the North of Ireland the term is "ginnling." The latter comes probably from the Scotch "ginner," or "ginnel," a fish's gill. None of the dictionaries make any attempt to explain "guddle." An ancient fisherman in whom there is no guile, informs us that trout remain quiet when tickled because parasites, especially at the low-water season, fasten themselves upon the creature's skin, causing discomfort which friction of any kind allays. This is not a poetic theory.

Personally appeared before me, a notary public in and for said county, Mrs. Caroline Shulka, of Prairie du Chien, Wisconsin, who after being duly sworn by me depose and sayeth as follows: That her little boy was kicked on the leg by a cow four years ago, which crippled him so badly that he could not walk without crutches; and for the past year and five months he could not walk a step without crutches or any other assistance; also that she had doctored with the best physicians she could procure, and that Dr. J. C. Rowley, of Prairie du Chien, had given the boy up as incurable after doctoring and treating him for nearly four years. On June the 8th, 1895, Dr. Ego came to Prairie du Chien to lecture and heal. I took my boy to see him, and after examining him he told me he could cure him and would make him walk in twenty-four hours. He commenced treatment, and my son commenced to walk, and has been walking ever since. He also had catarrh of the stomach; he could keep nothing in it, such as medicine, vitals or fluids, and he vomited corruption and blood nearly every day. Now he can eat well, sleep well and walk entirely free from pain, and I am very thankful for God to send a man to cure my boy of his terrible suffering.

Personally appeared before me a notary public in and for said county, Elsie Heidenwag, of Prairie du Chien, Wisconsin, who after being duly sworn by me depose and sayeth as follows:—That when I was eleven years old I felt striking my left leg and side on a stone step, rendering me a cripple for ten years and suffering terrible pains and swelling of my feet and ankles. I had doctored with the best doctors in Monheim and Baden, Germany, also the best American physicians but never could get my knee into its place until I visited Dr. Ego at his office in the City Hotel in the city of Prairie du Chien, Wisconsin. He examined me and replaced my ankle and knee joints and removed all the terrible pains and swelling. I have only taken two treatments and now am perfectly well and feel a new woman entirely. And I recommend Dr. Ego to all suffering women as he has cured numbers of my friends here.

I thank Dr. Ego for my speedy recovery.

JEALOUS JOURNAL NOT INFALLIBLE

A Few Words On The Relation Between Newspapers and Their Readers

It seems like presumption to question the accuracy of South River street saloon news in so high an authority as the Recorder, but in justice to the police it should be said that Janesville is not in the wild west, and that officers did not arrest anyone yesterday for "promiscuous shooting in a South River street place."

The Gazette has no time to bandy words with able journalists who find the easiest way of making a paper, to be rewriting such Gazette articles as suit their fancy and declaring the rest to be both. Allusion is made to this particular matter, only because of the unfortunate impression the Recorder article gives as to public order in Janesville. Gazette reporters learned the falsity of the street rumor yesterday afternoon, and the Recorder man might have done the same by making inquiry.

While the ink runs it might be added that Rock county never had a sheriff named "Daniel Fisher," although such an official is mentioned in one of the Recorder's praiseworthy attempts to set The Gazette right today.

The Gazette has never thought its subscribers cared for criticism on other papers, any more than they would wish to trade with Brown because he spent his time talking about his competitor, Smith. It will therefore say publicly as its representatives have said privately a dozen times a day for the last fifteen years, that all people who have grievances against other papers must go to those other papers for corrections. The Gazette has no time, no space and no desire to bore its readers with any such stuff. The allusion to the two items just mentioned—and The Gazette hereby apologizes to the readers for occupying their time with such matters—are simply made to show how such lazy jealousy generally overreaches itself.

RACES WILL BE INTERESTING.

Matinee To Be Given By The Arrow Cycling Club Tomorrow Evening.

The second of a series of race meets to be given by the Arrow Cyclers will take place at the fair grounds tomorrow evening, at 6:30 o'clock. The following events have been arranged for the meet: Two-mile handicap, one-fourth mile open; novice one mile, one mile open, and a five-mile handicap, but if plans that are now being made are carried out, the event of the meet will be a one-mile race between Geo. Wiggins of Evansville, who, with a three-minute handicap, won the recent road race to Crystal Springs, and Will Pennig, who, with a one-minute handicap, was a close third. Both Pennig and Wiggins claim the time medal, so Wiggins now offers to race Pennig a mile, to decide to whom the medal belongs, both to start even.

THOMAS ANDERSON IS OUT AGAIN

Man Who Was Run Over By a Mower Is Getting Along Nicely.

Thomas Anderson, the unfortunate man who was so terribly cut with a mower on the farm of George Crane a few weeks ago, is able to be about. The wounds on his face are not yet healed and Mr. Anderson is unable to explain how the accident occurred, but he says he thinks one of the horses kicked him in the face and then ran away, he falling so that the mower ran over him.

FIGHT FOAMY LAGER WITH W.C.T.U. TRACTS

NOVEL BATTLE TO BE WAGED AT THE FAIR.

The Ladies Will Rent All of the Dining Hall Except One Corner Where They Will Distribute Temperance Literature In Opposition to the Beer Booths.

"Before we will run our dining hall within a stone's throw of a beer booth, we'll shut up shop and fight 'em."

This is the W. C. T. U. platform in regard to the Rock county fair next fall, and the above declaration was made, and the course decided upon, at a meeting held at the home of Mrs. M. Yates, 166 North High street, at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

Ever since the rumor became current that liquor would be sold on the ground during the great "pumpkin show," the ladies of the cold water society have been making their plans to keep King Alcohol down or give up the field. For many years the "W. C. T. U. dining hall" has been a fixture at the grounds but this year it will be different. The ladies have become thoroughly disgusted, owing to the fact that their enemy seems to have the inside track, and yesterday's meeting was called to decide on what course to pursue. The session was largely attended and the situation was thoroughly discussed. They have paid $25 a year for the rent of the ground on which the building stands and claim that they have made but very little money.

Will Rent The Building.

Many theories were advanced by the ladies present. Some wanted to sell the building outright and let the people at the fair go hungry, while others favored the bearding the lion in his den. After the matter had been thoroughly discussed a vote was taken but neither side carried the day. All insisted that the sight of glasses of foaming lager sitting in a row on an oil cloth covered board was not one that would inspire a temperance cook to make the best pie on earth, or encourage a young man in buying lemonade and ginger pop. Some thought that to make an open fight would result in financial loss and probably no great moral gain. Others insisted that to give up the battle and leave a clear field to the bartenders, would be a direct violation to all their obligations. Then someone suggested a compromise.

Will Hand Out Tracts.

"Why not rent all of the building but one corner," explained the originator of the scheme enthusiastically; "and reserve just room enough so that we can hand out temperance literature as fast as they can distribute beer?" This proposition seemed to meet with universal approval, and a resolution to that effect went through with a whoop. A small office will be retained at the south end of the building, and the ladies will see to the distribution of cold water literature in person. Thus they run no risk of financial loss, uphold the principles for which they work, and no one can say that they do not take a bold stand and do the best that they can to down their arch enemy and plant the conquering foot on the neck of Mr. Schlitz famous yellow fluid. Whether or not their warfare will be effective, remains to be seen, but they will, at least demonstrate that they are in the battle to stay.

"JACK" HOWE USED TO LIVE HERE

Has Broad Detective Who Shot D. A. Williams' Former Resident Here.

Many Janesville people will remember "Jack" Howe the former manager of the Janesville gymnasium. As was stated in a special dispatch from Ashland in last evening's Gazette, Howe is in trouble, although many failed to recognize him in the brief story printed yesterday, he having shot D. A. Williams in a saloon fight. Janesville people who know Howe are loathe to believe that he was the aggressor in the trouble or that he did anything other than that which he was forced to do. They insist that he was a perfect gentleman and not a man to get mixed up in a saloon fight. Howe ran the gymnasium here successfully for a number of years. He then removed to Madison and for a number of years was chief of police of the Capital city. Of late he had been a special agent of the Wisconsin Central railway. Later advices from Ashland are to the effect that Williams was a character about town and that Howe shot him because he thought he had been attacked.

Howe had been in Ashland looking after the company's property and at the same time keeping an eye on the dock strikers, who recently left the employ of the company. He was charged with the duty of protecting employees of the company from interference or assault, as well as protecting the property. A consultation of physicians last night resulted in a statement that Williams cannot possibly live. An operation was performed, but it was of no avail. Howe has been put in the county jail. He was very anxious about the condition of Williams, hoping for his recovery. The Milwaukee papers say that Howe was one of the best men the railroad company had, and the officials placed the utmost confidence in his judgment.

Ashland, July 11, 3 p. m.—[Special].—Williams, who was shot in a saloon yesterday, by Detective Howe, died at noon. Howe was held under five thousand dollar bonds.

GIRL CANNOT RIDE ABOUT NOW.

Mother Gives The Liverymen Notice That She Must Pay Her Own Bills.

A lively discussion took place in a local livery barn this morning, during which the mother of a well known young lady put a stop to the daughter hiring any more livery horses until, at least, she can settle for them.

Two well known young ladies hired a horse yesterday afternoon, for a short drive, but instead drove to Beloit. After reaching the Line City, they decided to come home on the cars, and so left the horse at a Beloit barn. On their return they notified the liveryman that his horse was in Beloit and would be driven home some time today by a friend, but at last accounts the horse had not shown up, and the proprietor thinks that the young man may be enjoying a ride on to Rockford at his expense.

Omaha's Comptroller Being Investigated.

Omaha, Neb., July 11.—Comptroller Olsen's office is undergoing an aldermanic investigation, chiefly because of the comptroller's neglect to check up the city treasurer's book, thereby allowing Treasurer Bolin to mix up his cash accounts. It has developed that Mr. Olsen, so far from protecting the city against the assignment by employees of their salaries' accounts to the treasurer, supplied the treasurer with printed forms to facilitate this sort of thing, charging the expense of the printing to the city.

The Harvey-Horr Contest.

Chicago, Ill., July 11.—The committee having in charge the arrangements for the Harvey-Horr debate, which will begin next Tuesday, is Judge Henry G. Miller, chairman; William A. Vincent, secretary; L. J. Gage, treasurer; George R. Peck, George E. Power, Axel F. Hatch, H. S. Taylor. Miss Harriet Sherin has been appointed official stenographer. The contest will be held in the banquet-room of the Illinois Club. It will open at 2 o'clock, and continue until 5 o'clock.

Conservatives to Resign.

Toronto, Ont., July 11.—There is a great excitement in political circles here over the expected resignation of the conservative administration at Ottawa, after having been in power nearly seventeen years. It is expected that parliament will be dissolved probably within the next twenty-four hours and a general election called for at an early date. If this course is pursued it is almost certain a liberal government will be returned.

Woman Tarred and Feathered.

Circleville, O., July 11.—Law and order people of New Holland administered a coat of tar and feathers to a young woman of supposed objectionable character named Minnie Taintor last night and then drove her out of town with a warning never to return.

MILLS IN A FIGHT OVER A NEW DAM

WOOLEN COMPANY EMPLOYE PUT UNDER ARREST.

He Had Built a Coffor Dam That Is Said to Divert Water From the Cotton Factory Wheels—George Trenwith Gets a Stay and Can Work In Tobacco.

The arrest of Emill Schumacker this afternoon charged with obstructing the raceway of the lower water power, is likely to result in an important lawsuit in which the Janesville woolen mills and the Janesville Cotton Co. will be concerned.

Schumacker is an employe of the woolen mill, and under instructions, built a sort of coffer-dam in the raceway, to turn more water into the wheels of the woolen mill, and away from the wheels of the cotton mill, which is situated some distance below. Ruger & Norcross are defending, while George G. Sutherland is prosecuting. The warrant was issued on affidavit of W. G. Heller, manager of the cotton mills. At 3 o'clock, by consent of the parties the case was adjourned until July 17, the defendant being put under $200 bond to appear.

George Trenwith Gets a Stay

George Trenwith, who was arrested last week on charge of assault with intent to do bodily harm, is likely to escape severe punishment, and may possibly avoid even a jail sentence. At first it was thought Trenwith might be sent to Waupun, as it was charged that he while drunk, entered E. J. McCue's saloon, armed with stones, and undertook to demolish the place. The proprietor of the saloon had him arrested and Trenwith, when first brought into court last week, desired to plead guilty and take his chances before the judge. The court, however, continued the case until this morning, when the district attorney withdrew the more serious charge and substituted simply "assault" to which Trenwith at once pleaded guilty. After a few minutes of reflection he withdrew this and entered a plea of "not guilty" and his trial was then set for September 2. This long continuance was given at the request of the defendant's attorney H. S. Sloan who said Trenwith had a lot of tobacco which he had just planted and if it was not attended to at once, it would be ruined.

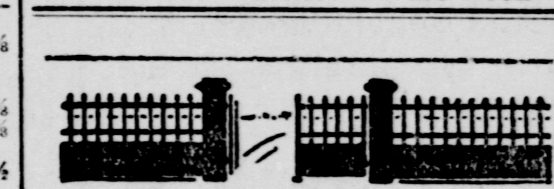

William Blakemore, who was chased through the woods by Thomas Butters after stealing Mrs. Butters' pocket book, pleaded not guilty, today, and took a change of venue from the municipal to the circuit court.

IN GOOD STYLE.

FASHIONABLE FANCIES.

White Gloves, Sailor Hats and Perishable Chiffon Parasols.

There is a fancy in Paris for white gloves stitched with white. The fashion of white gloves, unless they be wash leather ones, is expensive, for in order to be wearable they must be immaculate. Nothing looks worse than soiled white gloves. This revived style is becoming only to small, well shaped hands and should be avoided by women with large extremities, as white gloves, like white shoes, have a magnifying effect.

The sailor hat is perennially fashionable apparently. It is most correct when practically untrimmed—that is, when finished with a plain band—but ornamented ones have come more or less to the front for several years past and are seen again this season. They are not adorned quite like those of last summer, which, with their symmetrical bunches and choux, alike to a hair on each side, reminded one of a side wheel steamer. A little diversity is now permitted, and a tall spray or loop breaks the monotony by standing up on the left side. The plain sailor hat is also worn by women who appreciate the fitness of things and who prefer to put their furbelows on something that is not intended essentially for rough and ready wear. Plain white is much worn this season, as it was last. Whenever it is fashionable comments are made as to its troublesomeness, and it does indeed demand to be kept in the best of order. It is no more delicate, however, than light colors and washes infinitely better, being almost unique in looking as well after it is washed as it did before.

Chiffon parasols are particularly favored this year and are as dainty as could be desired, but are expensive to buy and of short lived beauty, chiffon being a material which is soiled and crumbled almost at a glance.

The gown illustrated is of suede faille. The bodice is finished with stitching and opens on the left side over a quille of white faille. The close fitting bodice fastens invisibly on the left side and is slightly rounded away at the throat, where it is adorned with embroidery of suede silk. A large open fichu composed of two wide ruffles of lace covers the shoulders and the upper part of the arms and is held in place at the front of the bodice by two straps of blue velvet fastened with antique buttons. A large collar of velvet finishes the neck. The sleeves are tight, buttoning over the forearm and completed by a lace ruffle at the wrist.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

JACKETS AND SKIRTS.

New Coats—How to Line the Fashionable Skirt.

The last departure in jackets shows a decided change of form from that which has prevailed hitherto. Instead of the skirt being so full as to be ruffled and crimped about the lower part, the new models are straight and perfectly flat, as if they were molded to the figure. The latest patterns have these straight backs, without even a seam down the middle and no back forms. This smooth expanse of cloth is becoming only to women who have a well rounded waist and hips, but the fashion will no doubt be adopted by everybody merely because it is new.

The skirts of the new jackets are about the same length as those heretofore worn, but look longer because of their extreme flatness. One of these coats has front, sides and back without more fullness than an ordinary waiter's jacket. It is rounded at the fronts, is single breasted and has very pointed revers, a turned over collar and the usual big sleeves drooped at the elbows. Indeed the tendency of sleeves to bag and drag down at the elbows seems to increase. Quite as much cloth is used as formerly, but instead of stiffening that makes them stand out the new linings are softer and make the material hang in rounded folds.

Whatever may be reported, wires are not put in the skirts made by the best dress-makers. Very good linings are employed, alpaca or silk instead of cotton, which soon loses its firmness, and a facing of haircloth about a foot deep. The haircloth is put on so that the horsehair lies horizontally and is fitted flat to the shape of the foot of the skirt. This keeps it well out from the feet, while the substantial lining gives the skirt body and makes the folds round and rich looking.

A sketch is given of a blouse of fine striped taffeta glaze changing from mauve to green. There is a box plait in the middle of the back, while the front is filled at the shoulder seam and waist and has in the middle a wide plait of black satin.

A LAUGH IN CHURCH.

She sat on the sliding cushion,
The dear wee woman of four;
Her feet in their shiny slippers
Hung dangling over the floor.
She meant to be good, she had promised,
And so with her big brown eyes
She stared at the meeting house windows
And counted the crawling flies.

She looked far up at the preacher,
But she thought of the honey bees
Droning away in the blossoms
That whitened the cherry trees.
She thought of the broken basket
Where, curled in a dusky heap,
Three sleek, round puppies with fringy ears
Lay snuggled and fast asleep.

Such soft, warm bodies to cuddle,
Such queer little hearts to beat,
Such swift, round tongues to kiss,
Such sprawling, cushiony feet!
She could feel in her clasping fingers
The touch of the satiny skin
And a cold, wet nose exploring
The dimples under her chin.

Then a sudden ripple of laughter
Ran over the parted lips,
So quick that she could not catch it
With her rosy finger tips.
The people whispered, "Bless the child!"
As each one looked from a nap,
But the dear wee woman hid her face
For shame in her mother's lap.

THE FOURTEENTH.

It has been said that it is always the unexpected that happens, and that to be prepared for emergencies one must be both a philosopher and a fatalist. As Professor Smythe, musician, piano tuner and general utility man—in a musical way—was going to the Globe theater, where he was to play a flute obligato with the regular orchestra, he would have been much surprised if any hint of a new calamity in his run down fortunes could have been then and there foretold. He certainly thought he had taxed the ingenuity of averse fate to its utmost, and he had enough misery on hand to last a lifetime. But the misfortune awaiting him was of a grotesque turn and quite unlike the others, which were the commonplace ones of illness, poverty and bad luck in everything he undertook.

As he walked along in the shrinking, depressed fashion that had become natural to him through habitude with misfortune he was aware of the sudden opening of a door in a handsome residence he was passing and a flood of orange light beaming across his path. At the same time a man in evening dress ran lightly down the steps, seized him by the arm and said briskly:

"My dear sir, excuse me, but would you do me a great favor?"

Professor Smythe forgot to draw into his shell, so sudden was this attack. He stood still, like the wedding guest in the "Ancient Mariner," but finally stammered his need of haste and the occasion of it.

"I will pay you twice as much, and you will have nothing to do but make yourself agreeable. It will be a great accommodation, and I shall never forget it. I can see by your appearance that you are a gentleman. Consider me a friend and accept my offer."

"But what service is required of me?" asked the professor, who had a vague idea that a grand piano had suddenly gone wrong.

"Why, you see, I am giving a dinner to some friends. It is all on the table, and we have just discovered that there are 13 of us. That would never do at all. Now if you will dine with us, you shall be well paid for your services, and I dare say you will be in time for your flute solo at the theater, as you can be excused when you desire. You will come? Thanks!"

The professor followed his host in a state of absolute subjection, as if he might have been hypnotized, but the fact was that the poor man had not broken his fast since morning, and the delicious aroma of the dinner coming through the open door proved irresistible. He gave his name in a whisper, was handed over to a servant, who took him up stairs into a guest chamber, helped him remove his shabby overcoat and whisked off his best suit with a silver handled brush, taking its threadbare glint for dust. It was well he was engaged to play; otherwise he would not have been in evening dress. He was beginning to enjoy the little comedy in which he was himself an actor.

There was no introduction. His host motioned him to a seat between the maiden lady and a severe matron who turned her silken back on him to talk to her neighbor on the other side. The professor's pride did not once assert itself. He was masquerading—that was all.

But fate had not done with Professor Smythe.

The consommé had a dash of champagne in it, and new life was infused into the veins of this professional diner out. The fish and game and pate that followed were all triumphs of the culinary art, and the hungry man cloyed the edge of his appetite, not by the bare imagination of a feast, but by the feast itself. It was no feast of the Barnabede either, for the viands were actual, and the wine was not a pretense, but a delightful vintage, served in cut glass goblets. The poor professor felt like saying to his neighbor, "Pinch me!" for it was like a dream or an illusion rather than a reality.

But the striking of the clock reminded him that he had been there an hour, and he had broken the spell of the unlucky 13 he ventured to excuse himself and rose stiffly from his place and bowed himself out of the room.

He was followed by a servant who handed him an envelope with the compliments of the gentleman with whom he had just dined. Not for worlds would he have opened it, though it was unsealed, before the man, but he accepted it graciously and went up stairs to get his hat and overcoat unattended.

A number of handsomely appointed chambers were on the upper hall, and the professor glanced into each as he passed on his way to the particular guest chamber where he had left his belongings. Perhaps he was a trifle overcome by the sherry and other beverages, but he thought the room had been darkened and that he was right. He stood a moment in the doorway and looked cautiously in, peering about at the luxury, but at the same time noting that it was not the dressing room for which he was looking. Before he could step back and turn down the corridor again the unexpected happened. He received a sudden and violent push from behind, which flung him forward out of the doorway into the room, the door was instantly locked upon him, and he was a prisoner.

"Smythe lock!" said the poor man as he tried in vain to open the door and knew by the rumpus he could hear outside that the house was in a state of excitement. "I suppose they will think I was trying to steal something."

And to add to his terror he heard the alarmed household coming up stairs, and the next moment the door of his room was opened, and his host, backed by all the male guests, stood in the open doorway.

"What are you doing here?" was the first question his host pronounced. "Tell the truth now as you would hope for mercy."

"I came here to get my hat and coat," said the professor, the dignity of all the Smythes since Mount Ararat in his thin, rasping tones.

"A likely story. Turn your pockets inside out," commanded the host.

"I refuse to do it."

"Then I will send for the police. I was willing to give you a chance, but if you refuse to be searched you are guilty."

"I am not a thief."

"I do not know. Your actions are very suspicious. You can explain matters to the chief of police. There must be reasons why you refuse to be searched. If you are honest, you can have nothing to conceal."

A hollow laugh rang through the room. Was it possible the bold intruder dared to laugh at them? It was the laugh of despair, and as such it smote upon the heart of the host, who looked troubled and perplexed. His enforced guest saw the look, and it suggested a line of action to him.

"Send these men away," he said, pointing to the group of alarmed guests crowding in at the door. He was glad the women had remained below stairs and not come to gaze upon his discomfiture. He did not know that they were locked up in fear and trembling in a distant parlor.

"We won't go," chorused the group. "He may want to murder you."

"I don't think he will," said the host, who was really soft hearted. "I'll trust him, and you fellows can go to the ladies. I'll call if I need help."

They went, rather glad to be out of it, and the two men, left together, eyed each other, one waiting for the other to speak. They were exactly opposite in appearance, one rosy and rubeicund, the other thin and anxious—a meager travesty on a successful man.

"I refused to let you search me," said the professor slowly, "because—oh, my God, how can I acknowledge it—I am a thief!"

The other man started and moved toward the door. Then he waited.

"I have stolen from you—here, let me show you, and you will know why I could have died easier than to have these people gloating over me. See here—and—here and here."

He took the valuables out of his pocket one by one. They made a strange exhibit as he piled them up on the table in front of him. They were a roll of dinner bread, a pate, a sweetbread rolled in a leaf of lettuce, a chicken breast, a bit of toasted bread and a caviare sandwich. He brought them out to the last crumb, with the manner of one who lays his life on the altar of sacrifice.

"Great heavens, man, what does this mean?" asked the astonished host.

"It means," replied the other solemnly, "that my sick wife and my little children are starving, and that I pilfered from my share of food at your table to give them, for my rent is overdue, and the money I earned is already spent."

"But what did you eat yourself?"

"More than I have eaten for many a day. But now do with me what you will."

"Would you mind putting these things back into your pocket?" inquired his host vaguely. "Now come with me." He took him by the arm and led him down stairs and into the presence of the shaking guests. "I—I made a bad mistake, my friends," he said. "This gentleman has proved himself perfectly innocent of any attempt at crime, and I must beg you to remain silent as to the events of this evening. He is under my protection from this time, and you will all agree with me that we are extremely sorry that such a mistake should have occurred."

Of course they all agreed with the sentiments of their host, whatever they were, and Professor Smythe was allowed to take his leave amid profuse apologies.—Mrs. M. L. Rayne in Detroit Free Press.

Conan Doyle on Cycling.

Conan Doyle, who is an enthusiast on cycling, says in Demorest's Magazine: "When the spirits are low, when the day appears dark, when work becomes monotonous, when hopes seem hardly worth having, just mount a bicycle and go for a good spin down the road, without thought of anything but the ride you are taking. I have myself ridden the bicycle most during my practice as a physician and during my work in letters. In the morning or the afternoon, before or after work, as the mood overtakes me, I mount the wheel and am off for a spin of a few miles up or down the road from my country place. I can only speak words of praise for the bicycle."

First—Never let me hear from you again!

Second—No one expects you to return!

Third—Come home, dearest—all is forgiven!—Pearson's Weekly.

EDIBLE DOGS.

Bright-Red Canines Which Are a Delicacy in China.

The Chinese "chouchou," or edible dog, resembles greatly the Pomeranian breed. Its forehead is broad and its muzzle quite pointed, though less so than the Pomeranian. The ear is short, erect and pointed forward, a little rounded at the tip. The eyes are small and black, the body short and thick. The "chouchou" has rough, thick hair and a curled tail. There are two varieties; one has long hair, which is the higher esteemed—the dish of the rich! the other has short, thick hair. There are three different colors, one entirely a bright red; this is the aristocratic variety. The others are of different shades of a dark tawny, with a black muzzle, and of a light tawny color with a clear muzzle. This last is the commonest kind. A general characteristic of this race is that the tongue is bluish black. This color is not natural, however; the puppies have red tongues, which begin to grow dark at the end of a fortnight or three weeks. It is rare that one of them is born with a black tongue. The "chouchous" are rare in Europe. In France M. Waldeck Rousseau, the statesman and lawyer, is about the only person who owns one. M. Rousseau, by the way, is said to possess the only Siamese cats in Europe. In England the Prince of Wales has three pairs of "chouchous" in his magnificent kennels in Sandringham. One of these dogs, Joss, is now quite old, being about sixteen years of age. After having been a favorite of the Princess of Wales he is now relegated to a corner on account of his infirmities. Plumpie, who is another of the same race, has replaced him in the Princess' affections and accompanies her on all her journeys. The other two dogs of this species owned by the Prince of Wales are Box and Fox, a pair entirely a brownish red, with black muzzles, and Buzz and Puz, who are of the tawny breed, with lighter muzzles. It is generally believed that the comestible dogs of the Chinese is the common variety with purple skin entirely devoid of hair except a little about the head, but these blue dogs of China—incorrectly so called, since they are encountered elsewhere in Asia and Turkey—are only a species which suffer from a hereditary skin disease. The manner of preparing these dogs for the table is the same as in vogue in the case of sucking pigs, and in China there is no formal dinner or grand banquet without a "chouchou" as the piece de resistance, decked out in the same way as pigs are on European tables or American free-lunch counters.
